

YOUNG DESIGN PROGRAMME 2009-10
SELLLN, THE UNIVERSITY OF GREENWICH, LAMBETH COLLEGE &
SOUTHWARK COLLEGE

FE students

Design students!

- Are you interested in taking part in a project where you work as part of a client team on a design project that looks at how design could improve the quality of life in your college?
- Are you interested in improving your personal and professional skills by directing a design team of undergraduate students from the University of Greenwich?
- Would you like to gain a better understanding of University life?
- Are you interested in finding out more about the development and design of new educational spaces ?
- Would you like to be mentored by design professionals?

If the answer to these questions is yes, you may be interested in taking part in the Young Design Programme. The Sorrell Foundation, The University of Greenwich and the South East London Life Long Learning Network are looking for National Diploma design students to work as client teams to run projects that look at how design could improve your College

To apply to take part please contact your tutor.